ACRL's 2019 Conference rocks Cleveland

ACRL held its 2019 Conference in Cleveland on April 10–13. The event drew more than 3,000 paid attendees from all 50 states and 22 foreign countries and featured a rocking reception at Cleveland's Rock and Roll Hall of Fame on Friday night. Internationally renowned cartoonist Alison Bechdel (right) was the closing keynote speaker. She illustrated her talk throughout with panels from her graphic novels, including Fun Home. Fobazi M. Ettarh, undergraduate success librarian at Rutgers University–Newark, described her take on vocational awe and being a “bad” librarian at an April 13 session. For more coverage of the 2019 ACRL Conference, including sessions on job dissatisfaction and the impostor phenomenon, visit the American Libraries website....

Notre-Dame's artworks will go to the Louvre

The artworks evacuated from Notre-Dame Cathedral during the devastating fire on April 15 will be transferred to the Louvre Museum, French Culture Minister Franck Riester told reporters. Staff from the Paris fire department, culture ministry, and city hall rushed to the cathedral when the fire started to protect the main artworks that were inside. The artworks, which include relics such as Christ's crown of thorns and King Louis IX's 13th-century tunic, were first moved to the city hall and will now be transferred to the nearby Louvre Museum. Paris public prosecutor Remy Heitz said there was no obvious indication the fire was arson. Laser scans of Notre-Dame taken by architectural historian Andrew Tallon in 2010 could be essential for the cathedral's reconstruction....

A school in Catalonia, Spain, has withdrawn from its library 200 classic children's books such as Sleeping Beauty and Little Red Riding Hood because of their depiction of sexist stereotypes. After analyzing the contents of its library for children up to the age of 6, the management of Taber School in Barcelona found that around a third of its stories were "toxic," and that only one-tenth of the books were written from a gender perspective. Anna Tutzó, who was on the commission that looked at the books, said gender bias also pervaded fairy tales, and that the change of gender roles in society "is not being reflected in stories."...

Entering a campus building while black

Scott Jaschik writes: "Barnard College in New York City has placed on leave campus public safety officers who physically stopped a black student from entering the library building the night of April 11. The incident, videotaped and shared by Barnard students on social media, has led to protests and a quickly organized campus meeting, and to a promise by the college to fully investigate what it is calling an 'unfortunate incident.' The student is enrolled at Columbia University. Video shows him objecting to being asked for his identification and also for being restrained by officers. After he gave the police officers his ID, they said they needed to check his status and asked him to leave the building."...

Free Library of Philadelphia criticized on diversity

Officials of the Free Library of Philadelphia faced harsh questioning from city council April 15 in the wake of controversies about racial and religious diversity in the system. "You need to do more, you need to do better, or we need to get someone who is going to do more and do better," Councilwoman Cindy Bass said at a hearing on the system's budget for next year. Councilwoman Blondell Reynolds Brown questioned Library Director Siobhan Reardon about a diversity and inclusion committee that the Free Library's board authorized in 2017. It still has no members and has never met....

2019 Pulitzer Prizes

The Overstory by Richard Powers, a sprawling epic about the wonderful life and alarming death of trees, has won the 2019 Pulitzer Prize for Fiction. The award marks a new high point in the growing prominence of environmental fiction. The point of The Overstory is that we all owe our lives to trees, these massive air purifiers and soil conditioners that have made human civilization possible. Frederick Douglass: Prophet of Freedom by David W. Blight won the Pulitzer for history; Be With by Forrest Gander won for poetry; and Amity and Prosperity: One Family and the Fracturing of America by Eliza Griswold won for general nonfiction....

How libraries help authors boost book sales

Rachel Kramer Bussel writes: “Libraries help authors increase book sales by stocking a wide range of titles, partnering with local bookstores for sales when hosting author events, running book-related podcasts, and more. New York Public Library’s Andrew Medlar said that NYPL added more than 476,000 print books, 75,000 ebooks, and 18,000 audiobooks to its circulating collection. Sarah McGowan, public services librarian at Mt. Lebanon (Pa.) Public Library, said that the library hosts one main event speaker per year, which they’ve been doing since 2014.”...
