LAMA President's Program to focus on networked information issues

"Managing in Cyberspace: Administrative Issues for a Networked Information Environment" is the topic of the Library Administration and Management Association (LAMA) President's Program to be presented on Sunday, June 27, from 2 to 4 p.m., during the American Library Association (ALA) Annual Conference in New Orleans.

LAMA President James G. Neal said the program will examine the expanding and diverse resources accessible through local, state, national and international networks and the complex policy and procedural issues library and information managers must address as a consequence of network development and use.

Presenters will include: Clifford Lynch, director of library automation, University of California, Oakland; Paul Evan Peters, executive director, Coalition for Networked Information, Washington, D.C.; Sheila Creth, university librarian, University of Iowa, Iowa City, and Frederick Weingarten, executive director, Computing Research Association, Washington, D.C.

The program will be preceded by the presentation of division awards and the Hugh C. Atkinson Memorial Award. A reception will immediately follow the program.
