The second session of the 96th Congress adjourned sine die December 16. The 97th Congress is scheduled to convene January 5 for largely ceremonial matters, then recess until January 19.

Appropriations, FY 1981

The funding process for FY 1981 federal programs has been confused and woefully behind Congress' own schedule. Consider the following table:

FY 1981 APPROPRIATIONS:	HR 7998 as passed by House	H J Res 610 in effect 10/1 thru 12/15	H J Res 637 (never enacted)	HJ Res 644 in effect thru 6/5/81

* Advance funded program.

The House passed the regular FY 1981 Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education Appropriations bill (HR 7998) back in August, but as the FY 1981 beginning date of October 1 drew near, the Senate Labor-HEW Appropriations Subcommittee had not yet made its recommendations, nor had the Senate completed action on a number of other funding bills. A stopgap continuing resolution (H J Res 610, now PL 96-369) was drawn up and passed, extending funding for most agencies through December 15. Then a further continuing resolution was developed. Both chambers passed this measure (H J Res 637), but could not agree on the report of a House-Senate conference committee. Finally on December 16, agreement was reached on a new further continuing resolution (H J Res 644) which was signed by President Carter on December 16, (PL 96-536). This measure provides funding for several agencies through June 5, thus ensuring that the new Administration and Congress will also have some say on the FY 1981 funding mess.

The current funding level (H J Res 644) is a return to the earlier House-passed levels for major library programs, while the interim measure (H J Res 610) was pegged at House-passed or FY 1980 levels, whichever was lower. This means the House-passed increases for LSCA III and the HEA II-B research and demonstration programs are restored, but the additional $3 million for medical libraries contained in H J Res 637 is lost. The Senate version of H J Res 637 included an amendment sponsored by Sen. Daniel Moynihan (D-NY) which would have prevented IRS from implementing its ruling on Thor Power Tool v. IRS for any publisher or small business forced to change accounting methods, but this amendment (and about 150 others) were dropped in conference. (See December 16 newsletter attachment for background on Thor.)

Library of Congress. The further continuing resolution (H J Res 644) provided funding for congressional and related operations through June 5 at the level of the House-passed Legislative Appropriations bill (HR 7593). For the Library of Congress, this means $176,844,000, $4.4 million less than the FY 1980 funding level. The Senate-passed version of H J Res 637 included an additional $100,000 to correct a perceived weakness in LC's historical American natural history holdings, and would have credited $5 million in copyright fee receipts to LC's Copyright Office, but neither provision survived.

H J Res 644 deleted a provision of HR 7593 which prohibited the use of funds for the international exchange of government publications for the Soviet Union, Cuba, or Iran. The amendment to HR 7593 was sponsored by Rep. Silvio Conte (R-MA). On the Senate side, Sen. James Sasser, (D-TN), Senate Legislative Appropriations Subcommittee Chair, had expressed his concern several times in the Congressional Record about the wisdom of sending military publications to hostile nations. What brought the matter to congressional attention was a bill passed by the House in June (HR 7302) transferring responsibility for the international exchange of government publications from the Smithsonian Institution to the Government Printing Office. The Library of Congress is the recipient of foreign materials sent in return. The House Appropriations Committee report (H. Rept. 96-1484) on H J Res 637 explains how the problem has been resolved:

While the Committee remains concerned that sensitive materials have been exchanged under this program, written assurances have been received from U.S. Security agencies that past practices are under review, and that sensitive materials will not be available for the exchange program in the future.

Patent Depository Libraries. Included in HR 7584, the FY 1981 appropriations bill for the Departments of State, Justice, and Commerce, the Judiciary, and related agencies, is $550,000 for "installation of computer terminals at Patent Depository libraries and/or improvements to patent search files." Although HR 7584 was vetoed by President Carter, its provisions are continued through June 5 by H J Res 644 except for the busing limitation which caused the veto.

Section 13, Title 35 of the U.S. Code authorizes a special price rate for current issues of U.S. patents to libraries open to the public. Some 35 libraries have requested depository status and met the conditions established by the Patent and Trademark Office in the Commerce Department. Patent depository libraries must make copies of patents freely available to the public and assist the public in the use of the collection; must be a government document depository under Title 44, U.S. Code, and a recipient under this program of classification and other patent-related publications; and if receiving paper copies of patents (upwards of 80,000 documents per year), bind them and dispose of them only under certain conditions.

HEA II Library Programs

Application notices and proposed or final regulations were published recently for Higher Education Act title II college library; library training, research & demonstrations & special purpose grants; and research library programs, as follows:

II-A College Library Resources. The application notice was published in the December 24 Federal Register (pp. 85145-6). Application forms and program information packages are being mailed to all FY 1980 applicants. The closing date is March 23. It is expected that about 2,600 grants of approximately $2,000 will be made.

Proposed regulations for II-A were published in the December 23 Federal Register (pp. 84950-52). Comments are due by January 22. Significant changes, based mainly on the Education Amendments of 1980 (PL 96-374), include renaming the basic grant for college libraries a "resource development grant" and increasing the maximum amount from $5,000 to $10,000; revising the maintenance of effort requirement to allow computation on either a total expenditure or expenditure per full-time equivalent student basis; requiring maintenance of effort only on library materials expenditures and no longer on library expenditures as a whole; stiffening the waiver of maintenance of effort procedures; and adding a new purpose for II-A grants--the establishment and maintenance of networks for sharing library resources.

In the proposed regs, funds may be used to acquire books and other library materials, or to "support the activities of a network, including, but not limited to, computer time, network membership and user fees," or both. The proposed definition of a network is "a cooperative organization formed to share library resources and to provide services (such as computer services and telecommunications) to its members. Its members may include institutions of higher education and public or private non-profit library institutions."

Comments on the proposed regs, or requests for application forms or further information should be directed to Frank Stevens, USED, 400 Maryland Ave., SW, Room 3622, ROB-3, Washington, DC 20202 (202/245-9530).

II-B Training. The application notice was published in the December 24 Federal Register (p. 85144). The closing date is March 2. Because of the limited amount of FY 1981 funds available ($667,000) only fellowship projects will be funded--no institute or traineeship projects. Awards are expected to range between $16,000 and $62,000 for about 24 projects at institutions of higher education or other library agencies and organizations.

Final regulations for the II-B training program were published in the December 24 Federal Register (pp. 85422-8). Because the necessary changes were minor, the regs have been published in final form without public comment. However, the regs will undergo a more thorough and exhaustive revision with a public comment period at a later date for implementation in FY 1982. The most significant revisions in the final regs include the incorporation of the standard selection criteria contained in the Education Division General Administrative Regulations (EDGAR), the addition of contract authority as well as grants, increased amounts for stipends and institutional support, clarification of the Secretary's authority to establish funding priorities for each fiscal year, expansion of the program purposes to include the development of new techniques of information transfer and communication technology, and the limitation of dependency allowances to trainees on a hardship basis only.

For further information or application forms, contact Frank Stevens, USED, 400 Maryland Ave. SW, Room 3622, ROB-3, Washington, DC 20202 (202/245-9530).

II-B Research and Demonstrations. From the FY 1981 funds of $500,000, two contracts were let in December: 1) to Cuadra Associates for the formation and ranking of a library and information science national research agenda for the 1980s to support policy formation, planning, and funding decisions in the Education Department and the Office of Libraries and Learning Technologies; and 2) to Simmons College for an assessment model of the capability and conduct of library information networks to provide consumer information to the public.

Proposed regulations for II-B research and demonstrations were published in the December 30 Federal Register (pp. 86312-5). Comments are due by January 29. The most significant revisions include changing the selection criteria to place more emphasis on the plan of operation, quality of key personnel, and significance of the proposed project; expanding the purpose to include the promotion of economical and efficient information delivery, the promotion of cooperative efforts related to librarianship, the support of developmental projects, and the improvement of information technology; and expanding eligibility for grants and contracts to include profit making organizations, agencies, and institutions.

II-B Special Purpose Grants. Proposed regulations are under development. No funds are available for FY 1981 for this program which the Education Amendments of 1980 (PL 96-374) expanded and transferred from II-A to II-B. Meanwhile, the special purpose grants would operate, if funded, under the authority of the Education Department General Administrative Regulations (EDGAR)--Grant Programs Without Specific Regulations, according to a December 22 Federal Register notice (pp. 84058-60).

II-C Research Libraries. The application notice was published in the December 24 Federal Register (pp. 85144-5). The closing date is March 16. FY 1981 funding is $6 million for grants to strengthen major research libraries. This amount is expected to support up to 36 new projects ($5 million) and 4 noncompeting continuation projects ($1 million).

Final regulations for II-C were published in the December 24 Federal Register (pp. 85430-33). The revised regs are substantively the same as the previous regs. However, the regs will undergo a more thorough and exhaustive revision with a public comment period at a later date for implementation in FY 1982. The December 24 regs change the selection criteria to conform with the Education Division General Administrative Regulations (EDGAR). The EDGAR criteria shift the point balance from the current 60 points for significance as a major research library and 50 points for the nature of the project to 48 points for eligibility and 62 points for the project itself. This shift could have the effect of making more libraries eligible.

For further information or application forms (available about January 16), contact Frank Stevens, USED, 400 Maryland Ave. SW, Room 3622, ROB-3, Washington, DC 20202 (202/245-9530).

Higher Education Act Regulations

Proposed regulations for several Higher Education Act programs (see above for HEA II programs) have been published recently, and reflect changes made by the Education Amendments of 1980 (PL 96-374):

Continuing Education Outreach (HEA I). State-Administered Program: Proposed regs (December 30 Federal Register, pp 86308-11) reflect combining and revision of activities previously carried out under the Community Service and Continuing Education Program, the Education Information Centers Program, and the State Planning Commissions Program. Institutions of higher education and public and private organizations are eligible to receive subgrants and contracts from the states for information and counseling services and continuing education projects. Comments due by March 2. Special Projects: Proposed regs (December 30 Federal Register, pp. 86315-

7) would govern a program with a new focus--alternative providers and approaches to the postsecondary education needs of underserved adults. A wide range of applicants is eligible. Comments due by March 2. For more info on either program: John Donahue, Office of Postsecondary Education, USED, (Rm. 3717, ROB-3), 400 Maryland Ave. SW, Washington, DC 20202 (202/245-9868).

Construction, Reconstruction, and Renovation of Higher Education Facilities (HEA VII). Proposed regs were published in the December 30 Federal Register (pp. 86340-59). Libraries are specifically mentioned. Comments due by March 2. For further info: Thomas McAnallen, Office of Institutional Support, Office of Postsecondary Education, USED, (Rm. 3716, ROB-3), 400 Maryland Ave. SW, Washington, DC 20202 (202/245-3235).

International Education Programs (HEA VI). Final regs were published in the December 31 Federal Register (pp. 86872-84 & 86504). However, comments, suggestions or objections are invited by March 2. For further info: Dr. Richard Krasno, Deputy Asst. Secy. for International Education, USED, 400 Maryland Ave. SW, (Rm. 3918, ROB-3), Washington, DC 20202 (202/245-9758).

Educational Opportunity Centers. The centers, part of the Special Programs for Students from Disadvantaged Backgrounds, provide participants with help in applying to postsecondary education institutions and in getting financial and academic assistance. Proposed regs were published in the December 31 Federal Register (pp. 86894-8). Comments due by March 2. For further info: Mary Kathleen Smith, Rm. 3514, ROB-3, USED, 400 Maryland Ave. SW, Washington, DC 20202 (202/245-2511).

ESEA IV Regulations

The December 30 Federal Register (pp. 86306-8) contains proposed regulations for title I and title IV of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act governing procedures for the submission of written objections and show cause hearings, when the Secretary of Education proposes to implement a by-pass to provide equitable services for private school children. These proposed regulations contain specific timelines and procedures in an attempt to ensure that an expeditious and fair decision is made on whether a by-pass is implemented. The by-pass route involves use of a contractor paid for from the appropriate allocations of the affected local educational agency (LEA) and state educational agency. It is an expensive way to provide service, but is necessary because some LEAs are unable or unwilling to provide equitable services for private school children. The by-pass procedure is in effect in three states for the ESEA IV-B School Library Resources and Instructional Materials program. Comments on the proposed regs are due by March 2 to Stephen Freid, Office of General Counsel, USED, 400 Maryland Ave. SW, Room 4091, Washington, DC 20202 (202/426-6300).

Public Works and Economic Development

Both House and Senate agreed November 20 to a simple extension through FY 1982 of the Public Works and Economic Development Act (PWEDA) and the Appalachian Regional Development Act. The bill, S. 3152, was signed by the President December 8 and is now PL 96-506. It authorizes $1 billion annually for Economic Development Administration programs and $500 million annually for the Appalachian Regional Commission. The House version of an earlier PWEDA extension bill, S. 914, would have reauthorized the Local Public Works Program which has provided funding for numerous library construction projects. The Senate version did not include local public works; it was not accommodated in congressional budget ceilings, and the Administration opposed it as well. House-Senate conferees were deadlocked on this and other issues since December 1979. When negotiations on S. 914 broke down for good, S. 3152 was developed to continue existing economic development programs.

White House Conference on Aging

The White House Conference on Aging (WHCOA) planned for November 30-December 3, 1981, in Washington, DC, offers an opportunity to implement the resolutions of the White House Conference on Library and Information Services concerning access to library and information services. Eighteen hundred delegates will make recommendations to the President and Congress about a national policy on aging. Librarians, library supporters, young and old, can participate in the conference and the events leading up to it:

1. State Conferences began in September 1980 and will continue through May 1981 in each of the states and territories. In many states, delegate selection will be keyed to the state conferences. If you are interested in becoming a delegate, check early with your state coordinator in the Governor's Office or State Unit on Aging. A list of tentative dates, locations and coordinators of the state conferences is attached to this newsletter.

2. Mini-Conferences, dealing with specific issues and populations, started in September 1980. These will be sponsored by various organizations and will address such topics as: Black Elderly, Asian American Elderly, Women, the Religious Sector, Transportation and Mental Health.

3. Local Sub-State Hearings will be conducted by the conference delegates throughout the local communities during the summer of 1981. These will be informal sessions where participants may share views on the issues with the delegates. They, in turn, will pass those views on at the national meeting.

4. Regional Hearings will be held in late August 1981. Conference delegates will gather in designated sites across the country to hear formal testimony pertaining to the issues. This will be the final step in the Conference process prior to the national meeting.

5. Conference publications, "A Guide to the 1981 White House Conference on Aging" and a poster featuring actress Ruth Gordon, are available, in quantity, to state library agencies and to libraries which can distribute them. WHCOA cannot distribute the guides and posters in individual orders, but will fill bulk, boxed orders as long as the supply lasts. To obtain the two publications write to White House Conference on Aging, Public Affairs Office, 330 Independence Ave. SW, Washington, DC 20201, or call 202/245-1904 and ask for Joyce O'Briant. (The guides come 250 to a box, and you may order more than 1 box; posters are 800 to a box, and you may request fewer of these.)

White House Conference for Children and Youth

December 13-18, 1981 are the dates set aside for the White House Conference for Children and Youth in Washington, DC. Four thousand delegates are expected to attend. Contact the Governor's Office in each state for delegate selection information. So far no preconferences or hearings have been announced. Further information is available from the White House Conference for Children and Youth, Public Information Office, 730 Jackson Place, NW, Washington, DC 20006 (202/456-6440).

Energy Conservation Regulations

The December 29 Federal Register (pp. 85610-30) includes proposed regulations for the Energy Department's grant programs for schools, colleges, hospitals, and buildings owned by units of local government (including public libraries). Comments are due January 28. For further information, contact Frank Stewart or Richard Minning, Office of Institutional Conservation Programs, Office of Conservation & Solar Energy, DOE, Mail Stop 2H027, 1000 Independence Ave. SW, Washington, DC 20585 (202/252-2198).
