Your Professional Association

from the Chair: Gretchen Neill

CJCLS has produced some excellent leaders within the profession, and we should be extraordinarily proud that two of our very own have both been nominated for ACRL's highest office....Lee Hisle and Bernie Fradkin

At the annual meeting of the CJCLS Executive Board during ALA in Chicago this past summer, the Board discussed the importance of reporting the section activities to the membership, especially to those who are unable to attend the annual conferences. As I was reflecting on that discussion, I received a very timely report from the ACRL Office indicating that our section has enjoyed an upswing in membership over this time last year. Obviously, for those of you who are unable to come to conferences, you still find that membership and affiliation with CJCLS is meaningful and of importance to you.

As Chair of CJCLS, I have a primary responsibility to advance the goals and objectives of the section and of ACRL. I believe that with ACRL's new Strategic Plan, and the four major, broad goals of the Association, our section within ACRL is poised to move forward with great vigor and promise in promoting the highest level of professional excellence for librarians and library personnel in order to serve the users of our academic libraries. Certainly, for those of you who have been to the annual conferences in the past several years, you are aware of the excellent programming that CJCLS has sponsored during ALA. In addition, CJCLS has produced some excellent leaders within the profession, and we should be extraordinarily proud that two of our very own have both been nominated for ACRL's highest office! Lee Hisle and Bernie Fradkin, both CJCLS members, will be running this next year for ACRL President. Congratulations to both colleagues.

I urge each of you to continue your membership and to participate as much as you can. Further, I urge you to join and use our CJCLS listserv, which is an excellent means of communicating and sharing ideas, concerns, and networking with your colleagues in the two-year and community college environment. Finally, I urge you to let your CJCLS Board know of ways that we can better serve the section, and you, our members. Please forward any suggestions to me and I will ensure that they reach the proper Board member or committee chair. My e-mail address is: gneill@dekalb.dc.peachnet.edu.

calling for interest in serving on CJCLS Committees. The following provides an update of the current committee activity.

AWARDS: Charles Peguese, Chair, has sent letters asking for nominations for these annual awards. Nominations for awards are kept on file for three years.

LIBRARY/MEDIA TECHNICAL TRAINING COMMITTEE: David Dowell, Chair, reports that the ALA Council Committee on Education has established a task force to revise the Criteria for Programs to Prepare Library/Media Technical Assistants, June 28, 1979. Dave will be the chair of the task force, with representation from COLT, Support Staff Roundtable, and the Committee on Education. There will be hearings at Midwinter, with the opportunity for comments in writing.

RESEARCH AND PUBLICATIONS: The first CJCLS Guide, Access versus Ownership: Collection Management in the Electronic Age, has sold very well. The second guide, Copyright Sampler, which is being prepared by Wanda Johnston and Derrie Roark, has been funded. Ideas for future guides should be forwarded to Beverley Gass, Chair.

TECHNOLOGY: The Committee has been busy at work collecting information on the CJCLS listserv, CJC-L, on information technologies in community college libraries/LRCs with the goal of presenting this information during the Midwinter meeting. Results of their findings will also be summarized on CJC-L. For additional information, contact Mary Dolven, Chair.

PROGRAM PLANNING 1996: CJCLS is teaming with ECLSS (the Extended Campus Library Services Section) of offer an excellent program entitled "Leadership on the Cybercampus Commons: Where are We in the Vision?" We plan for the program to consist of a panel of four senior officers from institutions and/or systems and a distinguished moderator who will define and discuss the "Cybercampus Commons" from their own institution's or system's perspective and answer the question uppermost in the minds of library professionals, "Where are We in the Vision?" It is particularly exciting to jointly plan programming with another section. We expect a lot of interest in this topic and are requesting that it follow the CJCLS General Business meeting as it has in the past. Look for information regarding this exciting topic as the program planning unfolds.

MIDWINTER IN SAN ANTONIO
CJCLS will have a full agenda during the Midwinter Meeting in San Antonio. In keeping with the custom, all CJCLS Committee meetings will be held in the same area, with the exception of the Awards Committee. This trend toward all committees meeting in the same area has been so well received that ACRL is now urging all sections to follow this lead. In addition to the committee meetings, and Board meetings, which are open to all members, we will be following another tradition of the Friday evening social gathering of all CJCLS interested

Call for Members of Committees, 1996-97

The general purpose of the CJCLS committees is to carry out the work of the section. Committee members must be personal members of the Section and are expected to attend both the Midwinter and Annual meetings of ALA. Standing committee members serve for two years.

CJCLS has a number of committees whose members are nearing completion of their second two-year term. It is the policy of ACRL that committee members serve no more than two consecutive two-year terms on a committee without a one-year break before reappointment to that particular committee.

If you are interested in serving on a CJCLS committee, please indicate your interest on the form included in this newsletter. Also, if you have served a single two-year term and are interested in being reappointed, please indicate your desire for reappointment. Please remember that new appointments will become effective at the close of the ALA Conference in New York in 1996.

members. Cary Sowell is planning a fun evening for us all on the Riverwalk in San Antonio. Look for her announcement of this in the newsletter, and many thanks to Cary for making these arrangements. This is always a very fun outing and an enjoyable way of networking with your colleagues, so plan to participate with us.

COLLABORATION WITH OTHER PROFESSIONAL ASSOCIATIONS

As a part of ACRL's Strategic Plan, a strategic direction outlined for the Association states: "Collaborate with other professional organizations and association of higher education in order to promote mutual interests." During the past several years, CJCLS has been in close collaboration with the National Council for Learning Resources (NCLR), which is an affiliate of the American Association of Community Colleges. During both the Midwinter and the Annual conferences, CJCLS (NCLR), which is an affiliate of the American Association of Community Colleges. During both the Midwinter and the Annual conferences, CJCLS and NCLR schedule a Joint Discussion Group, to share information and collaborate on issues on mutual concern and interest to both organizations. Plan to participate with us at either conference and share your ideas for future collaborative efforts.

1995 CJCLS EBSCO Award Nominees

The CJCLS Awards Committee is seeking nominees for the EBSCO Leadership and Program awards for 1995. Eligibility for the Program Award requires that the individual or group be from a two-year institution, or two-year institutions themselves can be nominated to receive an award. An individual nominated for the Leadership Award must be a member of the ACRL/CJCLS Section in order to be eligible for nomination.

Each awardee will receive a check for $500 and a citation donated by EBSCO Subscription Services. The presentations will be made during the CJCLS Business Meeting at the ALA Annual Conference in New York.

The deadline for receipt of applications is December 1, 1995. The Committee will review applications at the ALA Midwinter Meeting in San Antonio.

Reference Resources Review Committee

The Reference Resources Review Committee had its major current bibliography published in May 1995, Vocational and Technical Material for Community College Libraries. The many hours of preparing citations, compiling information and writing by many of your colleagues has produced in a resource well received by the entire Library community. Special thanks must go to the editor, Mary Ann Laun and to her supportive co-workers at Pasadena Community College. And, to Choice Magazine who put it all together. As part of our meeting in San Antonio, we are sponsoring a discussion of ways to provide better avenues for assisting with collection development in community and junior college libraries. If this topic is of interest to you, please join us on Saturday, January 20, 1996, from 2:00 PM -4:00 PM.

Collegiate News

The Fondren Foundation has just funded at San Jacinto College a pilot project for instructing faculty to use Internet in their classes for $26,470. The total program costing $118,000 will develop faculty leadership teams on the campuses who are experienced in Internet instruction.

Forty faculty and librarians will be trained in the use of Internet and terminals will be purchased for both the libraries and the faculty. The program will provide a firm foundation for the increasing use by faculty and students of the information resources that will be so critical to us in the future.

The San Antonio Connection

Are you planning to attend ALA Midwinter in San Antonio? If so then also plan on joining your fellow colleagues at the Midwinter Friday night get together. Tentative plans are to meet at the County Line on the Riverwalk. This is a well-known barbecue place that has recently opened a location on the Riverwalk. They serve family style and there will be a choice of at least two meats. Cost will be $20-25. I will be sending more info to all CJCLS committee members, but if anyone is coming to Midwinter and is not on a CJCLS committee, they can contact me for details by January 5th. Hope to see you there.
