

Considering All Children

A New Ideal in Evaluating and Engaging around Books for Youth

2018 Charlemae Rollins President's Program

2018 ALSC Charlemae Rollins President's Program Resource Guide

Monday, June 25, 2018

Awards, best-of-the-year lists and reviews focus on "quality" and "excellence" in literature for youth, but what do "quality" and "excellence" really mean in the canon of American literature for children? Who is deciding which books stand out? How are some critics and some children privileged in our field's thinking? How are some dismissed or made invisible? What does "American literature for children" even mean? What are common assumptions and current discourse, and what it would look like if we truly considered all children as we evaluate books and single out titles for distinction both within and beyond ALSC?

For this resource guide, the program panelists and moderator were each asked to share suggested critical readings and 5 to 7 must-have books for libraries. We hope you find these resources helpful.

Panelists

Margarita Engle, Author <http://www.margaritaengle.com/>

Margarita Engle is the 2017-2019 national Young People's Poet Laureate, and a USBBY 2019 Astrid Lindgren Award nominee. She is the Cuban-American author of many verse novels, including The Surrender Tree, a Newbery Honor winner, and The Lightning Dreamer, a PEN USA Award recipient. Her verse memoir, Enchanted Air, received the Pura Belpré Award, Golden Kite Award, Walter Dean Myers Honor, Lee Bennett Hopkins Poetry Award, and Arnold Adoff Poetry Award, among others. Drum Dream Girl received the Charlotte Zolotow Award for best picture book text. Her newest books are The Flying Girl, How Aída de Acosta learned to Soar, and Jazz Owls, a Novel of the Zoot Suit Riots. Pending publication in September is a picture book titled A Dog Named Haku, A Holiday Story From Nepal, co-authored with Amish and Nicole Karanjit. Margarita was born in Los Angeles, but developed a deep attachment to her mother's homeland during childhood summers with relatives. She studied agronomy and botany along with creative writing. She lives in central California with her husband and his search and rescue dogs.

Debbie Reese, Critic/Librarian/Scholar/Activist

<https://americanindiansinchildrensliterature.blogspot.com/>

Debbie Reese is tribally enrolled at Nambé Pueblo, a sovereign nation in what is currently northern New Mexico. Her book chapters, research, and professional articles on depictions of Indigenous peoples in children's and young adult literature are taught in Education, Library Science, and English courses in the United States and Canada. A former schoolteacher and assistant professor, she has a master's and PhD in Education from the University of Illinois, and an MLIS from San Jose State University. She is a founder of the Native American House and the American Indian Studies programs at the University of Illinois, and a founding member of See What We See. She was selected to deliver the 2019 Arbuthnot Lecture.

Jason Reynolds, Author <http://www.jasonwritesbooks.com/>

Jason Reynolds is a New York Times bestselling author, a Newbery Award Honoree, a Printz Award Honoree, National Book Award Honoree, a Kirkus Award winner, a two time Walter Dean Myers Award winner, an NAACP Image Award Winner, and the recipient of multiple Coretta Scott King honors. Reynolds was the American Booksellers Association's 2017 spokesperson for Indies First, and served as the national spokesperson for the 2018 celebration of School Library Month in April 2018, sponsored by the American Association of School Librarians (AASL). Jason's many works of fiction include When I Was the Greatest, Boy in the Black Suit, All American Boys (co-written with Brendan Kiely), As Brave As You, For Every One, Miles Morales: Spider-Man, the Track series (Ghost, Patina, Sunny, and Lu), and Long Way Down, which received both a Newbery Honor and a Printz Honor. He is on faculty at Lesley University, for the Writing for Young People MFA Program and lives in Washington, DC.
