For immediate release

Encouraged by the response to its micro-publication, "Current State of Catalog Card Reproduction", microfilmed and distributed in 1973 by the Library of Congress Photoduplication Service, the Reproduction of Library Materials Section of the ALA's Resources and Technical Services Division intends to continue the series by compiling a follow-up micro-volume on catalog card reproduction, and to publish another collection of reports on library policies concerning the reproduction of serials publications.

The RLMS Micro-file series is conceived as an informal means of communication among the librarians interested in reprography. Libraries interested in submitting papers on either of the above subjects are urged to contact the editor of the series:
